Blueprint for Improved Results for Students with Disabilities

Self-Advocacy

Students engage in self-advocacy and are involved in determining their own educational goals and plan.

Family Partnership

Parents, and other family members, are engaged as meaningful partners in the special education process and the education of their child.

Specially-Designed Instruction

Teachers design, provide, and assess the effectiveness of specially-designed instruction to provide students with disabilities with access to participate and progress in the general education curriculum.

Research-Based Instruction

Teachers provide research-based instructional teaching and learning strategies and supports for students with disabilities.

Multi-tiered Support

Schools provide multi-tiered systems of behavioral and academic support.

Inclusive Activities

Schools provide high-quality inclusive programs and activities.

Transition Support

Schools provide appropriate instruction for students with disabilities in career development and opportunities to participate in work-based learning.

Objectives for Module 6

Educational Organizations (EO) will...

- Affirm the importance and impact of effective family and community engagement
- Incorporate family engagement within your school's discipline practices, policies and procedures
- Integrate culturally responsive strategies to foster positive school -family- community partnerships
- Develop a system for shared decision-making
- Create an action plan to meaningfully engage families and ways to measure it

Working with Families around Behavior

YOUR TURN

Activity 1: Grounding/Opening Reflection

- What was your experience as a student related to family engagement?
- What role did your family play?
- How did this impact your experience as a student?
- How does this impact your practice as an educator?
- Based on your pre-work, how do your personal experiences align with your school's activities and initiatives around family engagement?

Defining the Parent's Role

Involvement

Parent involvement is when parents participate in school events or activities, and teachers provide learning resources or information about their student's grades.

Engagement

"Family engagement refers to active, interactive, and dynamic processes and practices that family members use to engage as equal partners with educators and other key stakeholders to support their children's development" (Garbacz, Witte, & Houck, 2017).

Collaboration

"Family-school collaboration refers to two-way communication, home-school coordination, and joint problem-solving between families and educators to make educational decisions for the purpose of supporting student success." (Garbacz et al., 2019).

Involvement and Engagement

One of the dictionary definitions of involve is “to enfold or envelope,” whereas one of the meanings of engage is “to come together and interlock.” Involvement implies doing to; in contrast, engagement implies doing with...

YOUR TURN

Activity 2: Involvement or Engagement?

- Holding a fall back-to-school open house where parents/caregivers follow their student's daily schedule and hear about each teacher's behavior expectations, grading policies and student handbook
- Asking the grandfather of a student in the school to be a mentor in an after-school program
- Recruiting a mother of a student to participate regularly on the school wide Positive Behavior Intervention Support (PBIS) team; when she cannot attend, she Skypes in
- Inviting 3 dads and moms to serve on a Social Emotional Learning (SEL) curriculum selection committee; their votes are considered equally with other committee members
- Releasing a youth from a study hall period to participate regularly in a division level committee about revising high school discipline policies

YOUR TURN

Activity 2: Involvement or Engagement

- Allowing the Parent Teacher Organization (PTO) to set up a school store at lunch to raise money to buy culturally diverse books for a classroom
- A principal and a parent co-teaching an evening session for families on homework strategies
- Staff collects donations of toiletries and cleaning supplies and distributes them to school families in financial need
- The Sunshine committee of the Parent Teacher Student Association (PTSA) plans a teacher appreciation week lunch for all staff

YOUR TURN

Activity 3: Reflection

Family Involvement and Engagement improves:

- Academic achievement
 - school readiness
 - grades
 - performances on standardized tests
 - literacy
 - homework completion
 - graduation rates
- Attendance
- Dropout rates
- Behaviors and social skills
- Placements and transitions
 - Post-secondary outcomes
- School climate and environment
- Parents' trust, connectedness, and relationship with teachers/schools

Classroom Family Engagement Rubric

Classroom Family Engagement Rubric

The teacher possesses the beliefs and mindsets to effectively engage families.
	Stage 1	Stage 2	Stage 3	Stage 4
1.1 The teacher values and respects families and sees them as important partners in supporting student learning.	The teacher believes that engaging families will have no impact, or a negative one, on student achievement. Example statements: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • “My students’ families are the reason my students are so far behind.” • “Engaging families won’t help my students do better in school.” • “My students’ families are not smart enough to help their children succeed in school.” 	The teacher makes some effort to engage families because he or she believes it will prevent behavior problems and misunderstandings throughout the year. Example statements: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • “If you don’t reach out to families now, you’ll have problems with them later.” 	The teacher engages families because he or she believes that knowing families better will help him or her better know, understand and support students. Example statements: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • “To really know my students, I must know my families.” • “I want to have positive relationships with my students’ families.” 	The teacher engages families because he or she believes all families want the best for their children and that family engagement will help students reach their achievement goals, regardless of parents’ socioeconomic background or education level. Example statements: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • “My families are the most important partners in helping my students succeed.” • “All families want the best for their children.”
1.2 The teacher sees engaging all families as part of his or her core role and responsibility and works to continuously increase his or her effectiveness.	The teacher believes it is not his or her job to engage families in their child’s education. The teacher takes no initiative to engage families, or avoids having to “deal” with families. Example statements: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • “I can’t engage families because they don’t care about school.” • “It’s not my job to engage families.” • “I send home information about Back to School Night, but family members never show up.” 	The teacher believes that he or she should engage families, but that competing personal or professional obligations make it too difficult to reach all of them. The teacher believes that most families face barriers to their engagement that are too difficult to address. The teacher measures success by the extent of his or her outreach efforts—as long as he or she has tried to engage families, the teacher is satisfied. Example statements: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • “I try, but there are some families that I just can’t get in touch with.” • “Family members don’t have enough time to meet with me.” 	The teacher believes that he or she should engage all families and that it is possible to do so. He or she makes efforts to engage families at the beginning and throughout the year. The teacher believes that he or she can engage most families, but there are a few families that face barriers to their engagement that are too difficult for the teacher to address. Example statements: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • “I engage all my families—I definitely have talked to each of them at least once since the school year started.” Examples: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Counting the number of 	The teacher is willing to spend time and energy to engage all families at the beginning and throughout the year because he or she believes it is a necessary investment in raising student achievement. The teacher believes it is possible to engage all families and works relentlessly and creatively to remove barriers to this engagement. Example statements: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • “Families can effectively do their job of supporting their kids’ achievement when I provide the right support and tools.” • “I must engage all families so they can help their children achieve their goals.” • “It’s my job and my responsibility to engage families

School-Wide Family Engagement Rubric

Strategy One: Creating a welcoming and engaging climate with strong relationships and communications between families and school staff

Objective	Stage 1	Stage 2	Stage 3	Stage 4
1.1 The school values families as important partners in their students' education.	Families think the school would rather they not be involved. School staff believe that families aren't really capable of partnering in their student's education, or that it is more trouble than it is worth to engage families. School staff do not articulate to families that their involvement is important. The school does not pro-actively reach out to engage its families. Sounds like: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • My parents are the reason my kids are so far behind. • Engaging parents won't help my students do better in school. • I can't engage my parents because they don't value an education. • It's not my job to engage parents. • There's nothing I can do to get families to step up. 	Families think the school does not really care if they are involved or not. School staff believe that families have too many needs or are too busy to partner in their student's education. School staff may articulate to families that their involvement is important, but not that they want to partner. The school makes initial efforts to engage families, but these efforts are not sustained throughout the year. If families are not responsive to initial outreach, the school does not make additional efforts to engage them. As a result, the school's family engagement approaches do not equitably serve all families. Sounds like: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • I try hard to get parents to be involved but it's not my fault if they don't show up. • I don't want to bother families by asking them to be involved. • Families might want the best for their students, but they can't do what they need to do. 	Families describe the school as committed to engaging families but sometimes unable to do so meaningfully because of other school priorities. School staff believe that most families can be effective partners in their student's education and they try various strategies to support them. School staff articulate to families that they want to partner and why it is important. The school makes sustained efforts to engage all families. The school successfully reaches some families, but usually is not able to reach their "hard to reach" families. As a result, the school's family engagement approaches do not equitably serve all families. Sounds like: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • To really know my students, I must know my families. • I want families to feel good about our school. • I try, but there are some families who I just can't get in touch with. 	Families describe the school as committed to engaging families and willing to put in the time and attention to make it a priority. School staff believe that all families, if treated respectfully and given the necessary tools, can be effective partners in their student's education. School staff articulate to families that they want to partner and explain to families what that looks like and why it is important. The school is relentless in ensuring that every student's family is engaged in the success of their student. The school is persistent and creative in reaching all families, regardless of their circumstances, and their efforts reach all families equitably. Sounds like: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • My parents are the most important partners in helping my students succeed. • All families want the best for their children. • I tell families I want them engaged and will do what it

Features of Family-School Collaboration within a CR Behavioral System

Essential Features of Family-School Collaboration	Culturally Responsive Behavioral Systems
	Identity	Voice	Supportive Environment	Situational Appropriateness	Data for Equity
Positive Home School Relations	An EO can start to build positive relationships by understanding who makes up their school community, in other words the identity of their school community. EOs should set up a system to collect data on race, ethnicity, ability, gender identity, language, marital status, religion, sexual identity, socio-economic status and how these influence a person's or group's experiences. Seek to understand your families, not to change them.	EO's can build positive relationships by providing opportunities for families to see themselves, their cultural values, and their histories in the school setting. An example of this might include having families come in and help decorate the halls and classrooms giving them a voice in what is seen and heard in the classroom setting.	Supportive Environment is created by sharing with parents the mission of the school which should include meeting students' needs by teaching students necessary or missing skills. These skills include both academic and behavior skills in which the teacher uses positive praise or acknowledgement to encourage students to continue to use the new skill. Also included in creating a supportive environment is providing training to practitioners to examine their own culture and the implicit bias they may have. One of the first steps in understanding our own identity and what we bring to the classroom setting is to examine where our values and beliefs come from, and how they affect the decisions we make.	Situational Appropriateness is included in building positive relationships by practitioners seeking to understand how behavior expectations between home and school differ. EOs want to honor and respect the initial behavior instruction provided to children by their families, even if staff personally disagree. These may be behaviors seen as necessary for survival in the home and community setting. In order to build a positive relationship we have to be able to acknowledge differences and work together.	When building home school relationships teams must be committed to examining data and focusing on changes within their sphere of influence. As teams disaggregate data it is important for them to refrain from making judgements about students or families. It is important to collect data on the families perception of home school relationships and strive to make it better.
Two-way communication	Once we have a good understanding of what cultures make up our school community we want to be sure we are getting feedback from all sub-groups. Keep in mind, the	Seek voices beyond your typical PTA committee by engaging and listening to underserved families. Each time we ask for feedback we want to have a way to disaggregate data and reach out	Acknowledge the parents and caregivers perspectives by getting feedback in regard to the schools policies and systems, some examples might include the school's mission statement,	Be mindful of "code switching" by having an awareness of what behaviors are accepted at home vs what is accepted in the school setting and know that the community the family lives in	Share data with families using different methods such as 1 on 1 meetings to provide a clear understanding, making data available and accessible on school websites, and or provide reading material that has clear

Positive Home-School Relationships

YOUR TURN

Activity 5: Stand Out Words

- Looking at the definition of Positive Home-School Relationships in your workbook, what words from the definition stand out to you?
- What is your school currently doing to build Positive Home-School Relationships?

Building Culturally Responsive Positive Home-School Relationships

Components	Description
Identity	Understand who makes up your school community Create a visible multilingual and multicultural environment
Voice	Give families a voice in what is seen and heard in the classroom setting
Situational Appropriateness	Seek to understand how behavior expectations between home and school differ
Supportive Environment	Share with parents the mission of the school Provide training to practitioners to examine their own culture and implicit bias
Data for Equity	Collect data on the family's perception of home-school relationships and strive to make it better

Critical Components of Building Positive Relationships

- Build trusting relationships by:
 - Learning about, addressing, and incorporating their opinions & concerns
 - Gathering insight into students' cultures, goals and learning preferences
 - Using trust generators with students and families
 - Connecting with families in the beginning of the school year to get to know them
 - Connecting with families to share positive feedback, not only negative feedback
- Believe that families are equal partners
- Value and respect the parent's role

Activities to Build Family and Student Involvement

- Encourage families to share information with school
- Designing a process to help new staff acclimate to your community
- Participate in neighborhood meetings
- Plan for data-informed decisions through feedback from families and students
- Student engagement and leadership opportunities (e.g., student PBIS team, clubs)

YOUR TURN

Activity 6: Ideas and Action Planning for Positive Home-School Relationships

- Using the Ideas and Action planning checklist in the workbook:
 - Evaluate where you are with each of the ideas
 - Check one box for each item
 - Determine two or three items that will be a priority for your action plan

Ideas and Action Planning	Doing this		Not doing this
	Already established	Just getting started	Could do this easily	This will take time	This will be difficult
Positive Home School Relationships
Families are encouraged to share information with the school about their culture, background, children's talents and need
District has onboarding practices that help new staff acclimate to the community
District staff participate in neighborhood meetings or district holds meetings/events in community instead of at school
Signage welcoming parents to the building and directing them to the office

Two-Way Communication

Building Culturally Responsive Positive Two-Way Communication Systems

Components	Description
Identity	Get feedback from all sub-groups Ensure communication sources are effective for all sub-groups.
Voice	Engage and listen to underserved families Reach out to any subgroup that is not represented Provide multiple opportunities for families to communicate in their language
Supportive Environment	Provide support for families who show an interest in decision making committees
Situational Appropriateness	Be mindful of “code switching” Get input from families when developing school wide or classroom expectations and discipline procedures
Data for Equity	Share data with families using different methods Acquire feedback on how to improve outcomes

Family Communication Tips

Developing a Successful Two-Way Communication System

- Simple: Write concisely at a fourth-grade level in the family's home language.
- Multi-channel: Use mail, email, phone calls, and text messages to equitably communicate.
- Skimmable: Write using headings and bullets so it is easily skimmed.
- Accessible: compatible with a screen reader, enlarge font available, sign language, braille, etc.
- Calendar: Send communications on a regular schedule to establish a routine.
- Timely: Share actionable and relevant information.
- Automatic: Automatically enroll families in communications with the option for them to opt out.

YOUR TURN

Activity 7: Ideas and Action Planning Two-Way Communication

- Using the Ideas and Action planning checklist in the workbook:
 - Evaluate where you are with each of the ideas
 - Check one box for each item
 - Determine two or three items that will be a priority for your action plan

Ideas and Action Planning	Doing this		Not doing this
	Already established	Just getting started	Could do this easily	This will take time	This will be difficult
Two-Way Communication
The school explores feedback from all sub-groups on best forms of communication
The school promptly follows up with parents if they have a question or concern
The school uses a variety of methods for communication with families and the community (I.e.; newsletters, phone calls, emails, websites, notices, and one-on-one meetings, etc.)

Building Culturally Responsive Shared Decision Making

Components	Description
Identity	Ensure all ethnic groups are represented when obtaining feedback and making decisions
Voice	Invite family members to be part of the leadership team
Supportive Environment	Diversity is incorporated into classrooms and school operations
Situational Appropriateness	Identify Cultural difference when making decisions
Data for Equity	Review data for equitable outcomes Use fidelity data to ensure follow through

Where Can Shared Decision Making Happen?

Part of the data decision leadership team

- Developing behavior definitions
- Developing behavior flowchart
- Identifying Tier 1 practices to be used in classrooms

Development of the code of conduct

- Any new or updated policy or procedures

Critical Components of Shared Decision Making

- Family voice is essential to installing effective educational practices and ensures the policies developed to support new practices are culturally and contextually responsive to the community served by the EO
- When establishing a Shared Decision-Making Process:
 - Provide upfront training to team members on roles and responsibilities of team members in the decision-making process
 - Ensure team has relevant and effective data for decision making
 - Authority to implement decisions made by the team

Outcomes of Including Families in Shared Decision Making

- Students, families, and community members provide input on universal foundations (e.g., expectations, consequences, acknowledgements) on an ongoing basis
- Families feel that their histories, interests, and experiences are embedded and visible throughout the school community

YOUR TURN

Activity 8: Ideas and Action Planning Shared Decision Making

- Using the Ideas and Action planning checklist in the workbook:
 - Evaluate where you are with each of the ideas
 - Check one box for each item
 - Determine two or three items that will be a priority for your action plan

Ideas and Action Planning	Doing this		Not doing this
	Already established	Just getting started	Could do this easily	This will take time	This will be difficult
Shared Decision Making
Parents are surveyed regarding their interests, talents, and availability to volunteer
A parent handbook with school policies is provided to all families
School has a parent involvement/engagement policy that is shared with all families
The school has a home-school compact that is signed by teachers, students and parents
School provides parents an opportunity to provide feedback on the policies and practices of the school

Family Voice for Equitable Discipline Quote

“Learning is rooted in the lives and experiences of people and cultivated through activities that people find meaningful. When teaching is not rooted in students’ lives, student learning suffers. Perhaps worst, biases take hold and deficit perspectives become normalized throughout our schools and classrooms, structuring entire systems that blame students for failure.”

(NYSED, 2018 p. 11)

Accessing Culturally Responsive Family Voice

Components	Description
Identity	Provide opportunities for all families especially your underserved families to have a voice in the decision-making process
Voice	Move from understanding groups by race to understanding their culture & ethnicity
Supportive Environment	Set norms that allow for open and honest feedback from all sub-groups
Situational Appropriateness	Take the time to learn about your students' cultural identities and validate and affirm cultural differences
Data for Equity	Look at all enrolled groups to determine where "business as usual" is adversely affecting sub-groups and seek input from the sub-groups that are being adversely affected

Examples of Family Voice in Equitable Discipline

Families and students representing all cultural identities adversely affected by disproportionality in the educational organization...

- participate in developing behavior definitions, the code of conduct, new behavior policies and practices
- participate in the review of data and problem-solving discussions that lead to action planning
- Participate in accessing racial/ethnic equity in acknowledgement systems (i.e., rewards used consistently with all groups of students)

Family Voice for Equitable Discipline

Successful School Leadership Teams not only include stakeholders as team members but also actively elicit ownership, voice and broad representation of their families and communities, especially underserved families and cultures; families and cultures adversely affected by disproportionality in behavior policies and practices.

YOUR TURN

Activity 9: Connecting with Community Assets

- In your workbook, read Vignette D: Connecting Community Assets and Classroom Learning and answer the following questions:
- Reflection Questions:
 - How could your school reach out into the community and connect with community members?
 - Who might those community members be?
 - How could community members support reaching your curricular goals?
 - How could community members support reaching your behavior goals?
 - How could your students' family members' assets be connected to their classroom? What would the benefit be?

Activity 10: How to Conduct a Community Analysis

- Read Article: Connecting Classrooms & Communities
- Using the suggested questions for Conducting Community Analysis located in the workbook, discuss how EOs can use these guide questions as a resource
- Identify any takeaways and where EO is in the process of community engagement

Family Voice for Equitable Discipline
The school has a means for inviting parents to ask questions or express concerns
School has a translator available for families
Staff visit and talk with parents, when appropriate, in their homes
Staff meet parents in their own communities, in a location outside of school
School staff are culturally and linguistically appropriate
Parent teacher conferences are offered at least twice per year

Training and Support for Family-School Collaboration

Building Culturally Responsive Training and Support for Family-School Collaboration

Components	Description
Identity	Collect data/information to help understand the needs of the families in your community
Voice	Include family members to participate in training as speakers
Supportive Environment	Create training and support around those needs so that it is meaningful Provide training on why the school uses a particular discipline policy Inform parents that the role of the school is to teach academics and behavior
Situational Appropriateness	Provide training on code switching
Data for Equity	Provide training on using data for decision making

Critical Components of Training and Support for Families

- Connecting behavior interventions to home
 - provide examples of what behavior interventions look like in the school setting
 - use families existing behavior intervention strategies as cultural capital to create ways to promote the use of behavior strategies in the home
- Provide training to families
 - to increase their knowledge of the language, authority structure, and curriculum of the school
 - to assist in developing the skills needed to increase participation in parent organizations

Considerations when Planning Professional Development

- Offer choices that align with district priorities and individual learning goals
- Consider having teachers facilitate the learning; play to their strengths
- Acknowledge the teachers well being
- Use collaborative learning protocols
- Engage in activity and discussion protocols

Evaluating Culturally Responsive Family Collaboration

Components	Description
Identity	Evaluate your process for collecting data on identifying families
Voice	Evaluate your process to ensure you're giving families opportunities to be heard and exercise leadership within the school system
Supportive Environment	Use a school climate survey to determine family perceptions of the school's supportive environment
Situational Appropriateness	Evaluate your process for understanding cultural differences when creating expectations
Data for Equity	Disaggregate data for analysis and action planning Openly communicate and discuss trends in the data regarding equity Use fidelity tools to measure progress of implementation

Critical Components of Evaluation

- Since all families and communities are unique within a school and across a district, the goals, strategies, and efforts for monitoring family-school collaboration need to be responsive to each school community
- We also need to consider a school/district's efforts to obtain, and give equal consideration to, family input regarding the school's behavioral systems and practices and consider if they are utilizing family input to guide ongoing improvements and adjustments in the strategies they are using

Activity 13: Ideas and Action Planning Evaluation

- Using the Ideas and Action planning checklist in the workbook:
 - Evaluate where you are with each of the ideas
 - Check one box for each item
 - Determine two or three items that will be a priority for your action plan

Ideas and Action Planning	Doing this		Not doing this
	Already established	Just getting started	Could do this easily	This will take time	This will be difficult
Training and Support for Family School Collaboration
A parent resource room or area is located near the entrance for parents to borrow educational resources and materials
